

violin by CONNIE DILLMAN

Connie Dillman has spent most of her life in the Southwest chronicling the spiritual mood of the land and its people. Through pattern and color, with abstract rhythm of line and shape. She traces the connection of all things in nature: animals, people, forests, deserts, mountains, rivers, the sky and the vastness of the ocean. Her work integrates stillness, harmony and strong design with layers of life until every day is seen as magical.

She is a Dolphin Fellow of the American Watercolor Society and a signature member of the National Watercolor Society of America and Pastel Society of America.

Violin photographed by Carlos D. Luevano