

Sirena by DIANA DE LA TORRE

Diana de la Torre was born in Los Angeles and grew up in Socorro, TX. Her love of drawing has been never ending since she discovered colored chalk at the age of four introduced to her by a catholic nun.

As a former military spouse, she received the chance to explore new scenery in different cities that helped inspire her creativity. She obtained a degree in graphic design from Southwest College in San Diego and currently manages a full-time job and does freelance graphic design.

Her son is her best inspiration. The innocence and wonderment of discovery that her son holds is what fascinates her the most and she tries to convey it through her artwork.
